VOC COMPLIANCE WITH CAR BRITE

States continue to adopt and update their VOC regulations as indicated on the map to the right. Each of these states enact legislation independently of each other and requirements may vary from state to state.

What are VOCs and why are they important?

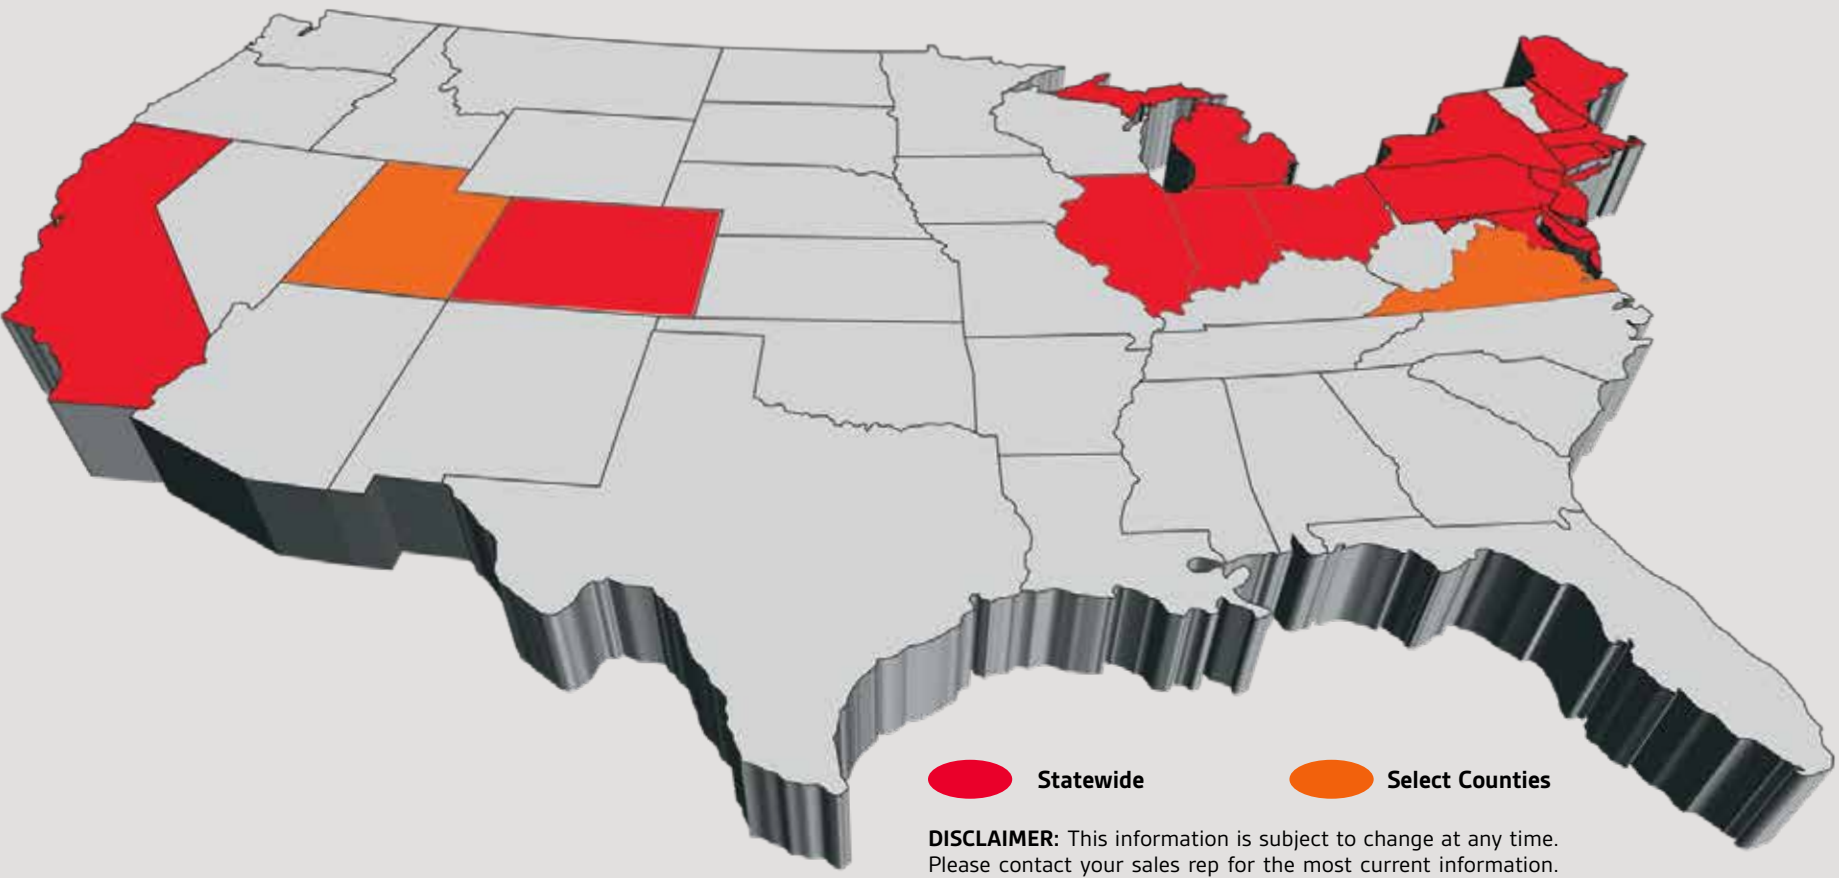

Volatile Organic Compounds (VOCs) are found in everything from paints and coatings to underarm deodorant and cleaning fluids. When emitted into the atmosphere, VOCs are a major concern of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and state air quality boards all over the United States. VOCs have been found to be a major contributing factor to ozone depletion, a common air pollutant that has proven to be a public health hazard.

What products are impacted?

The majority of car care product categories affected are:

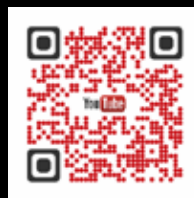

- Adhesive Remover
 - Air Fresheners
 - Automotive Rubbing or Polishing Compound
 - Automotive Wax, Polish, Sealant or Glaze
 - Automotive Windshield Washer Fluid
 - Bug and Tar Remover
 - Car Wash
 - Carpet/Upholstery Cleaner
